

these are Easter bunnies.

unfortunately,
these are Easter bunnies, too.

Lola was abandoned at the shelter, neglected to the point that she was lonely, depressed and suffering from urine scald and an ear mite infestation so bad her right ear was completely covered in scabs.

Abused Neglected
Abandoned Afraid

Hope and Elaine were starved to the point that they were only half the size they should have been when they were dumped on the side of the road. They had also become terrified of humans through physical abuse.

Most rabbits bought on impulse die early as a result of their purchaser's ignorance. Others grow into turbulent adolescence and are turned out into a hostile world. Still others linger in confining hutches, sad and neglected. Many more are destroyed at animal shelters after being abandoned once their Easter appeal has faded.

If you are considering a commitment to responsible rabbit ownership, please call us. Hundreds of rabbits in foster homes await adoption by the right people. We can supply you with information and support to promote a long, healthy, happy relationship between you and your rabbit.

thinking about buying an Easter bunny?
THINK TWICE.
